Both the technical proposal and the Presentation will be evaluated as part of the overall technical score. The minimum score required for the technical proposal to proceed to the Presentation stage is (35 points or more out of 50); both elements will be considered together to derive the overall technical score.

Only firms that secure at least 50 points out of 70 points in the combined technical evaluation (technical proposal and demonstration) will advance to the financial evaluation stage. Reference calls may be conducted as part of the due diligence process to verify bidder qualifications and provide additional context regarding similar projects. - ii. Provide a Proposal Section Reference to the section where each requirement is addressed in detail.

1. BACKGROUND

SECP was setup in pursuance of the Securities and Exchange Commission of Pakistan Act, 1997 and became operational in January, 1999. It has investigative and enforcement powers to regulate, administer and enforce laws pertaining to corporate sector, capital markets, non-banking financial sector and insurance sector with an aim to facilitate capital formation, protect rights of investors, develop an efficient and dynamic regulatory framework and maintain fair, orderly and efficient markets. The core business functions include promoting corporatization, market development, investor awareness and education, registration & licensing, supervision (prudential & regulatory) and enforcement (civil & criminal).

Over the years, in order to facilitate interaction with its regulatees, SECP has automated a number of business processes through a platform called e-Services. SECP management has envisioned a digital transformation program named “leading efficiency through automation prowess” (LEAP) to position SECP as a role-model regulator through end-to-end automation and digitization to deliver a world-class experience to its stakeholders. LEAP would enhance the internal capability of SECP to perform company registration, filing and compliance, licensing, supervision and enforcement and regulatory approvals functions swiftly and efficiently; encourage regulatory compliance, promote transparency and fairness, and continue to position SECP’s reputation as a credible corporate regulator. During and after the completion of the program it is envisioned that the regulatees will be involved in decision-making, policy setting, problem solving and the co-design of services.

As part of the LEAP Program, Karandaaz Pakistan is looking to engage a qualified bidder to provide consultancy services for assessing the current Taxonomy (prepared by ICAP for non-specialized listed companies) and its applicability and extension to cover all other classes of companies or IFRS complaint universal Taxonomy covering all classes of companies in terms of its suitability and efficacy, aligning it with Global IFRS standards, and localizing it as per local laws, rules and regulations for future XBRL implementation at Securities and Exchange Commission of Pakistan (SECP).
